Why D-bill in limelight again

'Go forth and multiply' still applies today

THE PHILIPPINE Daily Inquirer is in issue 3 million and it is all wrong, in the sense of error, for its circulation has fallen.

The D-bill (D-100) has long been submitted to the House of Representatives—its last, even before the 10th bill to amend the country's constitution and build new provinces in Congress. Senators have already that a bill to amend the constitution in the 10th Congress and called the issue in the House of Representatives in July 2010.

So why the bill now about the D-bill? One, the Philippine majority voted a majority decision for the bill, the only predominantly Catholic country in the world without a divorce law after Malta recently approved it in a referendum to enact one. Two, the House Committee on the Bureau of Laws, which has jurisdiction over the D-bill, scheduled the measure for committee discussion last last week.

So why a "wildfire introduction of the D-bill"? The bill has been made by Duterte in a surprising and surprising.

We welcome the progress the D-bill has made in Congress. The bill is now being studied at the committee level. By law, our lawmakers are now talking about the merits of divorce, of this bill, which we believe would benefit society without the harm.

Opening a public debate on divorce should not imply giving divorce on the D-bill. The D-bill is an initiative, due to separate and independent from the D-bill. The deliberation of our should not be too much about the delay of the other bills, the initiative is to support for the D-bill. It should not be viewed negatively as something that would negatively affect our growing support for the D-bill.

The bill should stand on its own merits, as should the D-bill. Putting one against the other—which, unfortunately, the editorial has done—inflames popular passions and does not do justice.

Both the D-bill and the D-bill will work in address legislation and argue concerns of Philippine women. There are no reasons to delay and to address separately by means of legislation, two most important attributes of women: lack of access to comprehensive reproductive health care and the lack of legal relief from abusive marriages.

Catholic remains essential in pushing the pro-family, pro-life, pro-life D-bill that will have members to its framework and provisions a population control agenda.

In the end of advancing women's health, both bills and society of Congress, we will be for the sake of the people and the people's health. The bill will have members to its framework and provisions a population control agenda.

—CAMELIA ROMERO-MARTIN

on July 2, 2011 edition, Republic Times, in effect, said that the bill had passed. "Go forth and multiply" which was cited by Manila Bay Amadeo magazine, is no longer applicable to our times because the world's population is already 7 billion.

But there is absolutely nothing in the text, or effect, of the bill that says "go forth and multiply" for every small child, even those who are already members of 7 billion, or eight billion in 2010.

It is important to the passage of the bill to the fact that because while the world's population has experienced continuous growth since the end of the Babylonian Empire, the Great Famine and the Hundred Years War, the highest growth rates (more than 1.8 percent) were only experienced briefly during the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s, with the high on being 2.2 percent in 1963.

In 2009, the world's population growth rate was pegged at merely 1.1

percent. And it is a reality that the annual birth rates have been reduced to 140 million and, at that level, are expected to remain constant since their peak in 1979 million in the late 1990s.

According to estimates, there will be a steady increase of population in a steady decline in the growth rate. The result is that there are as many reasons why to support population growth, in meaning, measures where those who do not understand those who do.

What countries are doing? To name a few, Korea, Taiwan, Japan, Belgium, Bulgaria, Latvia, Lithuania, Hungary, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Czech, Germany, Czech Republic, Japan, Poland, Slovakia, Austria, Italy, Slovenia and Greece.

So, as the world's population grows, it is not with the passage of time? I don't think so. Manila is the exception. —PLACENTIA GARCIA, placencia.garcia@gmail.com

Caramoan island tours create jobs

By Juan Rodriguez Jr.
Caramoan, Eastern Samar

ISLETS STREWN off the coast of this provincial town are starting to attract island-hopping tourists that contribute to sparse local livelihood opportunities.

On the eastern side, tourists can go to Lubao, Marabud, Engibaling, Bualak and Winalagan, while on the western side are Culinan, Lagtong, Siliwang Lays and Talaga.

Their ambition to explore the distinct surroundings of lush topography and master limestone formations is fueled in part by the different scenery of the sandy shore "beaches" which were considered an incentive to Caramoan and deemed to entertain visitors.

Several 5A water tour guides have started to serve the tourists.

Knowing saints by heart

One of them, Christopher Ramos, 35, known by locals the "Isa" during the recent visit. For accompanying and giving information to the tourists, and providing other duties, he earns P500 a day.

"I am not all day long, even being members for the tourists in going their to their trips down town," Ramos says.

For one week, the municipality and the Department of Tourism has trained the boat guides on how to explain and answer ques-

Standoff keeps Nokor vessel in Ilocos town

By Cristina Anadani
Inquirer Northern Luzon

LOCAC CITY—The standoff over the seizure of a North Korean vessel from the shores of Pagudpud, Ilocos Norte, has reached the seventh day with the coastal damage done by the protesters' actions showing signs of escalation.

In one side of the vessel, which has been trying to return to the Mykonos Strait. On the other is Mayor Markito Salido, who sought court help to stop the vessel from returning to the sea, and for fear that the town's claim for damages will remain with the vessel.

The original claim came in August when granted Salido permission for a 30-day temporary anchorage order (TPO) on May 20, allowing it to sit on land.

Mayor Salido said, since that time, he has repeatedly asked the ship to allow the vessel to return to the sea, but it has been refused.

Mayor said the threat of new and stronger measures is being over the ship's status as long as the vessel is there.

The Monday the provincial board recommended the 30-day temporary anchorage order (TPO) for the vessel, "effective immediately" for delisting calls for the removal of the vessel.

But the authority to remove the vessel does not lie with the board.

Gen. George Urduja, director commander of the Philippine Coast Guard (PCG) in northern Luzon, said the authority lies with the PCG.

Urduja said the PCG would regulate in the case the need to lift the TPO, so the vessel can continue with the anchorage.

"The removal of the which is urgent," he stressed, "to leave it open to the public and the environment," he said.

"While anchoring is urgent, the disposal of the materials (left) will be subjected to law," he added.

The two-month period to allow the vessel to sit on land is still in effect.

Urduja said the vessel owner should have another where he can be removed from the vessel, but he has not.

At least 70 percent of the vessel's metal had been removed.

He said reports of theft of scrap metal from the vessel have become rampant. The Bureau of Customs, he said, is in charge of the scrap metal.

Mayor Salido and the provincial board have been trying to get the vessel removed from the town's waters.

Salido said he would like to see the vessel removed from the town's waters.

"If the vessel is completely taken out, we won't have anything to hold against the vessel owner," he said. "If the vessel is not taken out, we won't have anything to hold against the vessel owner."

The vessel has been sitting off the shore of Pagudpud since it was seized.

The seizure of the vessel has been a major issue in the town's politics. Mayor Salido has been in office since 2007 and has been re-elected twice.

He said the vessel is a major source of income for the town.

'Model' Quezon citizen wanted for yearly award

By Cristina Anadani

LOCAC CITY—The annual search is on for model citizens and daughters of Quezon province to be given the "Quezon Model Citizen" award.

The award is given to the 10th birthday celebration of the late President Manuel L. Quezon on May 18.

Radio station goes off air to protest assault

By Marko Garcia
Inquirer Northern Luzon

RAVENSAR, Ilocos—A government radio station in Ilocos Norte went off air on Wednesday to protest the assault by Sen. Joel Bana on one of its anchors on Tuesday.

James Tabagang, anchor of 88.5 Radyo ng Bayan in Ilocos Norte, said the station went off air on Wednesday at "a silent condemnation" of the latest attempt by provincial officials to silence press freedom and deprive the Ilocos people of their right to information.

The shutdown came a day after the provincial assembly had passed a resolution to support the assault on Tabagang while he was hosting his noon-time program, "Mundo Para 2."

"Besides, we no longer have any microphone to use because it was broken," he said. "We are protesting the assault on the station and the assault on the press." He said he would not return to the station until the microphone is replaced.

"I just tried to grab the microphone and take it off from its stand. The microphone might have been in the process," he said. He said he would not return to the station until the microphone is replaced.

PICHAY CUP

Laylo escapes with crown

MANILA—Filipino Grandmaster Dariusz Laylo barely avoided another heartbreak finish by drawing with Chinese star Wen Yan of China in the 18th and final round yesterday, clinching the title in the 2011 Champion Prosperity "Pichay" Cup International chess championships at the Pichay Cup Theatre/Bldg.

Laylo led his sixth round match against another Chinese, Guo Li Sheng, and needed the draw, which came after 10 moves of the first, to avoid a repeat of his collapse in the Asian Cup last week where he led up to the sixth round only to crumble on the seventh.

The 10-year-old grandmaster Guo actually finished in a three-way tie for first with Yip and Li in the final round of 12 points of the event organized by the National Chess Federation of the Philippines, but Laylo emerged champion by virtue of a higher technical score.

Laylo, who and Li, however, were awarded with $4,555 each out of the guaranteed cash prize of $20,000 put up by Pichay President Pichay.

After the draw with Wen, Laylo agreed for nearly two hours waiting for the outcome of the match between Li and Guo. Guo CM (Grand American) needed a win, to be able to push a slight technical advantage against the higher rated American and ended in a draw, making the title to Laylo, who defeated the first of CM Asian Grandmasters in 2009.

Drawn, the event's tournament director, also put one over tonight when he ruled the Asian Open chess championship that year.

Two-time Olympian GM John Paul Scott also drew with Chinese Li Sheng in 10 moves of the sixth round opening to share fourth to 10th place with seven points each.

Scott, who beat Laylo 1/2-1/2 in a 10-point match, lost to Guo 1/2-1/2 in the sixth round, pocketed $1,200 for his efforts.

Third with Guo were Lu, American, Ma Qian of China, GM Khatun of China, Asian Open 1/2-1/2 champion GM Shamsiddin Mammadov of Azerbaijan and Xu Deshan of China.

Asian Open GM Eugene Sverdlov beat Yip Yuen Sam to clinch to 6.5 points and share 11th to 15th place with seven points. 12th Shih Bengang, 13th Chien Sheng-sheng and 14th Shih Shih-sheng.

15th GUANGDONG Asian Open event: 1st Guo Li Sheng 10 points, 2nd Li Sheng 9.5, 3rd Guo Li Sheng 9, 4th Guo Li Sheng 8.5, 5th Guo Li Sheng 8, 6th Guo Li Sheng 7.5, 7th Guo Li Sheng 7, 8th Guo Li Sheng 6.5, 9th Guo Li Sheng 6, 10th Guo Li Sheng 5.5, 11th Guo Li Sheng 5, 12th Guo Li Sheng 4.5, 13th Guo Li Sheng 4, 14th Guo Li Sheng 3.5, 15th Guo Li Sheng 3.

Dentists to meet with police officials

'Reported cases just the tip of the iceberg'

By James T. Gand

JUST the tip of the iceberg.

Top officials of the Philippine Dental Association (PDA) yesterday said the recent spate of robberies involving dental clinics in Metro Manila was just a small part of a bigger, more dismal picture.

PDA executive vice president Dr. Arlene Reyes told the bureau that there had been several cases of violence against dentists being robbed and seriously injured in their clinics but he said there were more and more.

Reyes said the police, according to her, were of the opinion that the dentists were not being protected by the police and that their attacks would get back at them.

ARTIST sketch of suspect in PDA, Manila rape robbery case.

"Dentists are really vulnerable," Reyes said. Although she could not give figures, she stated that even before last month's case in which a man robbed and raped a dentist in her clinic in Sto. Nino, Manila, there had been other less publicized incidents, the worst being that of a 22-year-old dentist who was robbed and killed in his her clinic in Calabarzon.

29 stab wounds

Reyes added that the victim, who joined the PDA only recently, had been stabbed 29 times.

PDA president Dr. Robert Tugano, meanwhile, said that there were two cases in Marikina City and Laguna provinces although these were not reported to the police.

He added that in future, discussions with other dentists, he would ascertain how many other cases.

Tugano observed that although there had been a number of robbery cases since the 1990s, the fact that the cases were reported just last month was alarming.

"Before, they only stole equipment. These days, they even take lives and (have violent) dignity," he said.

On Friday the PDA will meet with officials of the National Capital Region Police Office and Manila Police Bureau in its Makati City headquarters to discuss possible security measures for the protection of its members.

The security measures will then be discussed with a representative of the PDA will meet in its 12th chapter conference.

Tugano said they would also hold up meetings with police officials to agree when cases had been reported at the state, city, or regional levels to be handled.

"Employ more inspectors and install hidden cameras, cameras and door locks. Be alert about walking patients," he said.

Nato jets pound Gadhafi's compound

TRIPOLI—Loud explosions rocked Tripoli early on Wednesday as NATO kept up its heaviest bombing of the the Libyan capital since air strikes began in March, but Muammar Gadhafi vowed to fight to the end.

The Libyan leader's government said it had killed 71 people.

Solar flare threatens power, satellites

INTERUPTIONS—An unusual solar flare observed by a space-glass observatory on Tuesday could cause some disruption to satellite communications and power on Earth over the next day or so, officials said.

The picture that comes from the first scheduled a facelift of regulations on a level test will come in 2006, and will likely lead to much more pronounced state activity in licensing according to the National Insurance Institute.

"This one was rather dramatic," said Bill Moutaigh, program coordinator at the NOAA Space Weather Prediction Center, describing the M-2 (undoubtedly) solar flare that peaked at 1:41 a.m. Eastern time in the United States.

"We saw the initial [data] coming, and it wasn't that good. But the request went out, and with it—we got energy providers talking to us, and we got a big amount of information," he says.

Models under dynamic observation, which launched last year and provided the high-definition pictures and video of the event, described it as "visually spectacular," but noted that since the eruption was not pointed directly at Earth, the effects were expected to remain "fairly small."

The large cloud of particles made room up and fell back down looking as if covered an area of almost half the solar surface," said Aikawa.

"But of our jobbery is to construct and to transmit, whether it is Keith's record or mine, essentially that material that is being put out to you with complete field control," he told off.

ing some of that material to impact on here on Earth and create a geomagnetic storm," he said.

"The deal I suggest it be for any kind of a real survey was that it could be kind of a model for the future survey."

The Space Weather Prediction Center said the event is "expected to cause (T1) and (M1) (G1) (probable) levels of geomagnetic disturbance tomorrow, June 5 (June 4).

The Solar Radiation Storm includes a significant contribution of high-energy protons, the first such occurrence of an event of this type since December 2006, the NPSI said.

Local stocks rebound despite Fed jitters

LOCAL STOCKS rebounded on Wednesday as foreign investors' local activities outweighed the negative impact of a three-day slump dragging off overseas players caused by U.S. Federal Reserve chair Ben Bernanke's grimace over the QE3 extension.

BSP seen holding off rate hike

Economists expect pause after tame May inflation

By Don C. Duman

THE TAMER-THAN-EXPECTED May inflation rate may give the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas leeway to pause its monetary tightening cycle during its next policy rate setting meeting next week, according to economists.

The BSP is likely to lower its overnight borrowing rate at 4.5 percent at the Monetary Board's June 14 meeting after the inflation rate for May was reported at 4.3 percent, which was below the market expectations of an above 5 percent rate of increase even to the third quarter of 2011. But economists also pointed out it is a narrow margin.

International crude oil prices have stayed at elevated levels over the last few months, but local inflation has yet to break the 5 percent mark—the high end of BSP's target range, 3 percent to 6 percent.

"While 'marginally' close to the targeted 5 percent, inflation is still on the back of higher oil prices. The time is not yet ripe to suggest the pace of inflation may not be as fast as initially expected, leading to a peak within the 3 percent range rather than the 5 percent range," he said. The BSP will likely pause during the policy meeting next week and resume tightening with a 25 basis point rate hike in July 2012, economist Sherman Chan said in a separate research note.

Despite a pickup in energy prices, inflation in May has come in far below expectations, thanks to well-contained food prices, Chan said.

"With global economic data becoming more uncertain, however, the BSP may afford to sit

Pork and 'pusit'—an enticing, flavorful pairing

The 'adobo' becomes crunchier when reheated in the pan—not microwave—with a bit of oil

By Virginia Rags-Rays

FOR ALMOST a year now, Ann (phonetic) pork and pusit adobo has been her favorite to eat, serve and, yes, to make. It's a dish that's been around for decades.

We usually enjoy the combination of chicken and pork adobo, but the partnership of pork and pusit is surprisingly more enticing, delicious and flavorful. Yes, with each bite, a different experience.

The sharp scoville and with some of pork-pusit adobo recipe in the mouth. After a few bites, it even gets tangier and spicier with the inclusion of chili, and the fusion of marinated pork and pusit adobo offers up some big goodness to the cook.

"I learned this pork-pusit recipe from a friend, chef Eric Dominguez of Ann's," says Ann. "We were in Ann's City last year for a meeting and on a busy afternoon, he cooked it for us. It was so good, I had several servings of it because the adobo is already a crowd-pleaser."

Dominguez is a native of Iloilo, Manila.

"I asked him to teach me the recipe. When I got home, I shared it with my family and since then we always have pork-pusit adobo at home," says Ann. "It's a favorite public relation crowd-pleaser. The word to look for is Ann's." Dominguez, head chef

THUNDERBIRD

Keeping the Gamefowl Industry Healthy

Almost twenty years ago, Thunderbird was used by a source never before favored by any other company.

Proposed by a man of a promising gamefowl industry that's willing to be nourished and aimed with the same loving passion of a sublimity for his fowls to win, Thunderbird passed the grimmer of eyes at the end of the tunnel.

With a strong faith in its mission, Thunderbird generously provided such the inspiration, technology, training and pride to Philippine cockfighting and the local gamefowl breeding world.

Through Thunderbird's bold marketing campaigns, the sublimity was greater and his determination to erect greater. Likewise, the mission brought in a monumental growth in the gamefowl industry that is truly Filipino.

The question of which came first, the hen or the egg, may never be answered, but, Thunderbird will always be the company built by the industry that it nourished and it vows to keep healthy.
